INJURY PREVENTION CENTER

Certificate available to both MPH and non-MPH graduate students.

Certificate in Injury Science

Certificate Program Goals

- Engage students in coursework and internships to enhance their knowledge of injury science.
- Train students on how to use injury data and conduct policy analyses.
- Expose students to multiple disciplines, theoretical perspectives, and methodologies to address the needs of vulnerable populations.

Program Benefits

- Gain content area knowledge and experience while earning your degree.
- Highlight specialized injury science knowledge and commitment to employers.

Program Requirements

Four courses (12–13 credit hours)

- Two CORE courses taken at the U-M School of Public Health
- Two ELECTIVE courses

A practicum component

- 300-hour internship, research position, or independent study for 3-credits

Questions?

To learn more contact UMInjuryCenter@umich.edu, scan the code, or visit sph.umich.edu/injuryscience/.